STATISTICS

Report of the Conference Statistician
Milton E. Wilson
For the year ending December 31, 2007

The production of this report requires the assistance of countless individuals. It begins with each church collecting their statistical data, submitting it to their district office, who carefully review the data before submitting it to the Conference office. At the Conference office the data is again reviewed in preparation for this report. I'd like to thank everyone who helped in the creation of this report and I'd like to especially thank the Data Management staff, who are largely responsible for its completion. I hope it is of value to all who utilize it.

Although this report doesn't fully reflect the mission and ministry of the church, it does play a vital role in many decisions made by the districts and the Conference office. It offers assistance in identifying the areas where we have had success as well as the areas that need greater attention. This report also aids in the calculations of each church's apportionments to the Conference and Districts as well as the Conference's share of the overall denomination's ministry and mission.

Last year several new reports were added with the hope of recognizing the results of those churches that exerted extra effort in both membership and connectional giving. We will continue to monitor the data in an effort to include information that is relevant and informative.

2008 Journal of the Florida Annual Conference - Part VIII

In order to conserve space in the statistical tables we have reduced the column headings in the tables to the question number (and letter) and just a few phrases. These smaller column headings enable us to share more information using slightly larger type and improve legibility.

Please use the following chart as a reference. In most cases the column numbers used here are the same as the column numbers used in the official statistical collection worksheets. Paragraph numbers such as (¶229.4), refer to the paragraph in the 2000 Book of Discipline.

District abbreviations are as follows: AC - Atlantic Central; EC - East Central; GC - Gulf Central; NC - North Central; NE - North East; NW - North West; SC - South Central; SE - South East; SW - South
